Environmental Protection Agency, Office of Cooperative Environmental Management, 2006. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)226233247 Subject: Environmental policy -- United States. Excerpt: . . . II. Introduction In October 2004, the Office of Research and Development ( ORD ) of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency ( EPA ) requested that the National Advisory Council for Environmental Policy and Technology ( NACEPT ) form a broad-based Subcommittee of technology experts to address issues and advise the EPA Administrator on the present focus and status of environmental tech nology programs within the Agency ( see Appendix A for the full text of the Subcommittee charge document ). On November 3, 2004, the Subcommittee on Environmental Technology was formed ( see Appendix B for the membership list ) and shortly thereafter held its first meeting. The charge document posited the following core question: How can EPA better optimize its environmental technology programs to make them as effective as possible in promoting the research, development, commercialization, and implementation of sustainable private-sector technologies; and what other programs and activities should it undertake to achieve this goal In particular, EPA requested the Subcommittee to review its effectiveness in the following five areas: 1. Evaluating the existing suite of technology support programs, both individually and 7 collectively, with particular focus on redundancies or gaps and the extent to which they are appropriately designed to address technology development barriers. 2. Encouraging demand for innovative technologies through the use of such tools as direct financial incentives, creative regulatory and policy approaches, preferential governmental purchasing, the evaluation and elimination of governmental permitting barriers, or other demand-pull actions. 3. Reaching critical audiences with innovative technology information by organizing ( or reorganizi....
