S. citizen recognized its ominous potential. Armed with clear evidence of computer espionage, he began a highly personal quest to expose a hidden network of spies that threatened national security. But would the authorities back him up Cliff Stolls dramatic firsthand account is a computer-age detective story, instantly fascinating and astonishingly gripping (Smithsonian). Cliff Stoll was an astronomer turned systems manager at Lawrence Berkeley Lab when a 75-cent accounting error alerted him to the presence of an unauthorized user on his system. The hackers code name was Hunter -- a mysterious invader who managed to break into U. S. computer systems and steal sensitive military and security information. Stoll began a one-man hunt of his own: spying on the spy. It was a dangerous game of deception, broken codes, satellites, and missile bases -- a one-man sting operation that finally gained the attention of the CIA. . . and ultimately trapped an international spy ring fueled by cash, cocaine, and the KGB. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
